- Convincing people that they should care about the human rights of EVERYONE

Bio

I'm Michael Opiela, a First-Generation college graduate from Texas A&M University with a Bachelor's of Science degree in Economics & Sociology. I was born and raised on the southwest side of Houston, Texas (in the city, not a suburb) and am the only son of my parents Michael and Elizabeth. I'm currently pursuing a Master's of Science in Marketing degree from The University of Texas at Austin in order to further pursue a career as a Marketing Manager in either Sports, Music, or Media Marketing. I'm a huge Astros and Rockets fan, and my favorite shows are Atlanta, Sex in the City, and Snowfall. I'm passionate about Social Justice, and also love listening to music, mainly Southern Rap and Indie Hip-Hop with some R&B, but I'll listen to anyone you put me on to. I also have a cat, she stays with my parents in Houston and her name is Patches (she loves you already!). I have professional experience at Halliburton, Doordash, and Potbelly Sandwich Shop, and am currently a Campus Ambassador for Lucra Sports. I look forward to learning a ton more in this class!

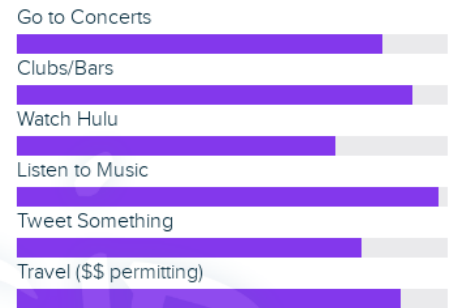

I think my laptop case looks cool
